

Faith Seeking Understanding Discussion Questions

Pastor Steve Albertin has created a video series that seeks to apply the Crossings perspective on faith and life to a variety of issues faced by Christians today.

The genesis of the series began in the last congregation Pastor Albertin served before his retirement. He was concerned that his church needed to make more effective use of visual media in order to better connect with a world increasingly dominated by screens and images. He also wanted a simple, accessible way to address many of questions the people in his congregation were asking about faith and life. From that context “Faith Seeking Understanding” emerged.

Steve was convinced that the Crossings community faced a similar challenge. It needed to make its ministry more accessible to a broader audience that was not all that unlike his congregation: immersed in visual media, living busy lives with short attention spans, hungry for ways to better understand their faith and better connect it to their daily lives.

This initial series of “Faith Seeking Understanding” includes ten 4-5 minute videos that seek to do just that. The videos address a series of simple and ordinary questions that Steve hears many people ask in the church today. These questions often address the most basic and fundamental aspects of the Christian faith and life. Two groups of short questions accompany each of the videos that can facilitate their use in a variety of small group situations. The first group of questions for use before viewing the video set the context. The second group of questions for use after viewing the video dig deeper into issues raised by the video. They also encourage further application to the daily lives of the viewers.

Steve Albertin is a Board Member of Crossings and a writer of text studies and occasional offerings for the Crossings Blog. He is a retired ELCA pastor now residing in Zionsville, Indiana. Steve holds M.Div. and S.T.M. degrees from Christ Seminary-Seminex and a D. Min. Degree from the Lutheran School of Theology. Over the years, he has written several new hymns and published several collections of sermons.

2. Where is God “revealed” in your life?
3. How does “hearing the promise” change the way we “see” God?
4. What does it mean to live “with the eyes of faith?”
5. How is the “revealed” God still “hidden” in your life?

Pre-Viewing Questions

1. Will someone who has never heard about Jesus and the Gospel be saved?
2. Describe some of the “good people” you have known in life but do not believe in God and will nothing to do with Jesus. What do you think God will do to them in eternity?
3. Suppose that God will finally in the end “save” everyone. What does that say about the “mission” of the church? Why is it still important?

Post-Viewing Questions

1. Describe some of the “uncle Charlies” in your life. Why would asking God to be fair with the “uncle Charlies” in your life . . . be dangerous?
2. Why is the question “Will everyone be saved?” God’s problem and not ours? Why is that good news?
3. Why is the “mission” of the church “urgent and important?”

Pre-Viewing Questions

1. “Why do bad things happen to good people?” What are some of the answers to this question that you have heard in your life?
2. What kinds of answers to this question has the church given you in your life?
3. Have any of these answers been satisfactory? Why or why not?

Post-Viewing Questions

1. How does the experience of suffering and evil undermine the notion of an all-powerful AND an all-loving God?
2. How are the stories of Job and Jesus examples of undeserved suffering?
3. How is the story of Jesus not an explanation but a solution to the problem of suffering and evil? Why is that good news for you?

Pre-Viewing Questions

1. Give some examples of when you have heard “fake news.” Why does it seem “fake?”
2. Give some examples of when you have heard “fake news” in the church. Why does it seem “fake?”

Post-Viewing Questions
